

I come from...

...The fresh Mediterranean area, from the splendid landscapes of Algeria, where roses bloom early— a place bursting with diverse cultures and endless tales to tell

An atmosphere of care; travelling the depths of pure Michigan and valuing each moment,
each person.

A home, built up from more than just brick and mortar.
From a place to take sanctuary from the troubles of the outside world. A land of kindness. From the place where people have a supportive smile, a comforting embrace, and a helping hand when we need it the most –
but may expect it the least.

I come from the land of peace, stability, tolerance, and moderation.
I come from a place where there is a mixture of feelings generated by the fragrance of grace.
A land where the reconciliation between people and their environment is just charming. A peaceful wonderland with unknown open spaces, from unread books and unanswered questions, with old souls and happy faces. I come from home, Earth,
and mother nature.

I come from the wonderful city of simplicity. From the charming beaches of north Sinai; the obscure healing power of Egypt's Eastern sea. From the beloved mother nature that is full of purity, love and peace; from the kindest, most beautiful, and finest I have seen.

I come from a place that might not be perfect,
a place where people need to work hard to reach peace and happiness, where they need to be strong to reach their goals. But what really makes this place special, is that we love life whenever we can, in this place you can see love in our eyes, you can sense that we care, and you can always learn how to live when you're with us.

From the red city, the place of joy and generosity

From among the long palm trees, where the smells of spices and flowers meet, rise up and fly, far away kissing the sky—
in which birds are making the most beautiful symphonies.

All days are their parties.

From a calm and very familiar place. The place where you spent your whole life. A place that remembers your growing up.
A place of love.

I come from the city of peace, that I see as an art piece.
It's where sunshine is hugging every walker,
giving hope for a better future.

I wish the world...

Strength to tame the many trials and tribulations
it is presented within every moment.
Awareness, education, opportunities.
To instill empathy and to unite in the face of fear.
Unity, freedom, peace, love, and humanity.

I wish the world peace and solidarity,
I wish the world healing from all the hardships.
I wish the world freedom. To learn to embrace the uniqueness of every living creature and treat one another with respect.
I wish the world more prosperity, well-being, and patience to overcome present struggles.
Peace, tranquility, harmony, and empathy.

I wish the world more kindness and more loving where the seed of hatred does not grow. I wish the world spiritual development and unity.

I am a leader because...

...I portray resilience in the face of difficulty.
I achieve to overcome the hurdles placed before me.
Because I care about the other.
Because I set my heart free and have the courage to follow it.
I seek goals and take action. I unite, I inspire, I burn obstacles with a wild fire.
I'm a passionately curious dreamer to make life
beautiful and Earth an empire.

I am a leader because I have a heart of gold, I never settle for less, and I make sure to inspire others to do the same.
Because I prioritize improvement in every aspect of life.
I reflect, motivate, and take action to create a flourished life.

Because I listen, I help, I share the best of my knowledge.
Because I want to cooperate with others to achieve a positive change. Because I want to spread inspiration and confidence.

I am a leader because I want to see change.
I have a lot of pieces to rearrange. I see the need for social change, and value the power of youth empowerment to spark that change. Because I inspire others to improve and become better. I am a leader because I believe that someone's problem is our common problem, because we are all people of the same land

I am a leader because I will make the puzzle pieces fit just right and I want to see the world be a better place for everyone.

I'm a leader because I have a vision for a world with no wars, where every kid has the same opportunity to study and flourish, with a better life for creatures on the land and underwater.

I'm a leader because I know what this world needs to change, and I aim to change it.

Equality is...

...Standing beside the rest of humankind, celebrating our differences instead of looking down upon them. Balance, fair balance. Having the same and equal opportunities for everyone, in every aspect.

Freedom is...

...Freedom is a state of mind. It is a lack of bondage and slavery in one's acts. It is the power to think without limits, speak without restraint, and act without fear.

Freedom is to wake up every day seeing that your family is still here with you, safe, and to have them support and encourage you. To know that if you aim to do something, no one will stand in your way.

Freedom is a feeling that makes you feel at peace, helps you understand the people and things around you, and allows you to do anything you want.

Humanity is...

...Humanity is caring, helping, and loving unconditionally. Humanity is the art of respect. It's unity, it's peace. It's forgetting our selfish interests when others need our help.

Humanity is unity, where compassion and respect triumph; living together, and not against. Humanity is the vessel— if you don't fill it with love, it will be empty.

It is a question:
Will you love no matter what? Will you give and share? Will you accept? Will you sacrifice?
And most importantly, will you be there for one another?

Humanity is what defines us, and what makes us human. It is unconditional love, compassion, peace, and unity.
